WAITING FOR MISSING CHUM

Dying Slowly as Prayer is Offered.

FORMER MARION CHUM

Asks for the Return of Her Dearest Friend.

Effort is Being Made to Locate Mrs. Jessie Lewis, Wanted by Mrs. W. H. Rensenberger.

Dying of consumption and deserted at the last moment by her life-long friend has been the sad experience of Mrs. W. H. Rensenberger, a former resident of Marion, now living in Columbus. Mrs. Rensenberger, while a resident of Marion lived in the Star block on East Center street. Her husband was employed here as a paper-hanger. Following is what this morning's Ohio State Journal said about the affair:

"Propped up in a big chair, waiting and watching, listening intently to each footstep in the hall outside, a frail woman sits in her parlor at 890 1-2 North High street, hoping and praying for the return of her dearest and most intimate friend—a chum and companion for years—while the death angel approaches to claim his tribute.

Three weeks ago the friend left the home of the little woman and there has been no word from her since. The loving ministrations of a husband and sister fail to cheer or relieve the anxiety for the one who is so mysteriously missing. In the meantime tuberculosis makes rapid inroads on the impaired vitality. The one bright hope to save a life is in the return of the friend of girlhood.

About a year ago W. H. Rensenberger came to Columbus with his wife and sister, Leona Warrington and Jessie Lewis, the absent friend. They left Marion where all had spent their lives, and sought the opportunities of the larger city. For a time all were happy. The husband, ad rafting, man, found employment in a book store and the girls worked in the Troy laundry while the wife kept house.

Last spring tuberculosis, which had been feared, began its inroads on the wife. Progress was slow and there seemed a chance to escape its grasp. Three weeks ago Mrs. Rensenberger was visiting relatives in Marion. One noon Mrs. Lewis left her work at the laundry and went to the flat home. She packed all her clothes while none was there, and has not since been seen nor heard from at the home or laundry. There was no word of parting.

The little woman returned to find her friend missing and cannot be consoled. Worry and disease have wasted her strength; she is absolutely an invalid and her body is wasting away. The one thought is of her friend. If she can only see her before the end. If they can only part—if it must be—in the old intimate friendship.

The husband has made every effort to find a trace of the missing girl. He feels sure she is safe and is in Columbus. On the success of his search hangs the strongest thread of hope to save—even for a time—the life of his wife. If he fails, the little woman will continue waiting and watching—counting the hours until the end.

The missing woman Mrs. Jessie Lewis, was formerly of this city, and is a daughter of Mrs. Robert Branson. About six months ago her little son, while visiting at the Branson home, was fatally burned. Mrs. Lewis was formerly employed at Anthony's laundry.

Miss Mayme Cortad was very pleasantly surprised at her home on Silver street, Tuesday evening, by a party of intimate friends. The evening was passed at games and music, after which a two course luncheon was served.

An old time taffy pulling was enjoyed later in the evening.

The Tally Wags will give an informal dance in the clubhall tonight. Dowler's orchestra will furnish the music and a large number of the clubmen and their ladies is expected to attend the affair, which is the first informal dance of the season.

KING JOHN COMETH NOT

Marion Crowd was Greatly Disappointed.

WORLD'S RICHEST MAN

Rumored to Have Visited the City Wednesday.

Pennsylvania Road will not Change Schedule of Flyer—Local Railroad Happenings.

There was a report circulated in local railroad circles yesterday that John D. Rockefeller, the oil king, was to pass through Marion on a special train over the Pennsylvania sometime during the day. The report apparently came direct over the wire and nearly everybody believed it and thoroughly expected to see the world's richest man.

The special arrived and a crowd of railroaders and other curious spectators crowded around it, looking into every window to get a peep at the financial king. Alas! All were disappointed, for the conductor appeared and informed them that John D. was in New York and couldn't afford to travel so far as Marion in such a time as the present financial strife. And the crowd disbanded greatly down-hearted and disappointed.

The special train carried a crowd of oil men from Columbus who were bound for the northern oil section of Ohio.

The New York Central has concluded to increase the running time of the famous twentieth century limited, from 18 hours to 19 1-2. The action is said to have been taken in compliance with the wishes of the patrons of the road.

The Pennsylvania officials, however, state that 18 hours is long enough time for the hustling business man to consume in traveling from New York to Chicago, and they declare that they will continue running their flyer at the eighteen hour clip.

Another result of the Erie's rate cut has developed in the filing of a notice by the Missouri Pacific railroad that it will use the Erie's $10 rate between New York and Chicago in basing its rate on through business to Pacific coast points.

Mr. C. B. Dugan, superintendent of dining car service of the Erie with headquarters at Hornell, New York was looking after business in local railroad circles yesterday evening.

Up to the present date, none of the railroads have offered special holiday rates.

BARKS WEILED HIS LITTLE HATCHET

Placed Under Arrest for Hacking the Bark.

On Farm of J. E. Berry He Fells Two Trees—When Asked to Stop Said "No."

James W. Barks, a prominent farmer living south of the city, is under arrest on the charge of going on the land of his neighbor, J. H. Berry, and cutting down two oak trees and hacking the bark on another. Barks was arrested late Tuesday afternoon by Constables Ben Haysford and James K. Redd and was brought before Justice Charles H. Conley. He pleaded not guilty and was released on a bond of $50. His trial will take place at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The charge against Barks, punishable by a penitentiary sentence, is "trespassing and cutting live timber."

Berry, according to the story which he told the justice, caught Barks on his land cutting one of the trees. He requested Barks to desist and Barks refused.

Trouble of long standing between the two neighbors is said to be the cause of this difficulty.
